

New videos with practical tips for volunteers

The Volunteer Support Team has been in the field with their smart phones to capture footage and their knowledge with three new videos. These cover tips on:

- Perennial Veldt Grass identification and control (https://youtu.be/YMcFc-f\_uo)
- How to prioritise where to start weeding your site (<https://youtu.be/TGVR2pZcPk8>), and
- How to use the haloing technique for weeding in bushland (<https://youtu.be/1C4aYfBgdQo>).

Click on the red play button on the videos to play or copy and paste the relevant links in your browser.

We hope volunteers who missed previous face-to-face workshops on bush regeneration and volunteers working in bushland in general may find these useful.

If these kind of short clips of tips and tricks to working on your sites is of use, please let us know so we can pass that feedback onto the new Landscape Boards which will start operating from July 1st this year.
